Administration Services

- A new project for the Overdose Fatality Review (OFR) includes a partnership with the Gahanna Jefferson School District. The OFR was invited to develop and share a presentation with school mental health professionals to assist in better identifying the warning signs of substance use and how to work with students who may be experiencing substance use in the home. This project aims to elevate the community's ability to address and mitigate adverse childhood experiences. Development of a short presentation is underway and is scheduled to be shared with Gahanna Jefferson School District in September of 2025.

- The naloxone program is in the process of scheduling four naloxone trainings for Franklin County Children Services, and four naloxone trainings for the Franklin County Sheriff's Office. These trainings will allow staff of both agencies to carry naloxone and be prepared to respond should they witness an emergency overdose event.
- So far in 2025, FCPH has recorded 127 successful overdose reversals with kits distributed. This number relies on individuals returning for future services and self-reporting reversals, so the true number of reversals is likely higher.
